1 What is a cookie?

Cookies are text files containing small amounts of information which is downloaded to your hard disk or to your browser's memory when you visit our site. Cookies are useful because they can help a website to arrange content to match your preferred interests more quickly. Most major websites use cookies. Cookies cannot be used by themselves to identify you.

2 Categories of cookies that we use

The type of cookie or similar technology that may be used on our Sites can be put into 1 of 3 categories: Strictly Necessary, Performance, and Advertising.

1. Strictly Necessary Cookies

These cookies are essential, as they enable you to move around our site and use their features, particularly in connection with information searches and order placement. Without these cookies, services you have asked for cannot be provided. These cookies do not gather information about you that could be used for marketing or remembering where you have been on the internet.

2. Performance Cookies

These cookies collect information about how you use our site, for example which pages you go to most often and if you get any error messages from certain pages. These cookies collect information that is used to improve how our sites work. Without these cookies we cannot learn how our site is performing and make relevant improvements that could better your browsing experience. Examples of performance cookies that our site use includes Google Analytics (see further discussion below).

3. Marketing Cookies and Similar Technologies

These cookies or similar technologies may be used to deliver advertisements that are more relevant to you and your interests. They may also be used to limit the times you see an advertisement as well as help to measure the effectiveness of the advertising campaign. These cookies may track your visits to other websites. Without these cookies or other technologies, online advertisements you encounter will be less relevant to you and your interests.

We DO NOT permit third-party advertising partners to use cookies and other technologies to collect information about your browsing activities when you visit our site.

3 Setting your Cookie Preference

You will be asked to consent to our use of cookies as described in this Privacy Statement by way of a cookie information banner upon your visit to our site. You can usually modify your browser settings to decline cookies and you can withdraw your consent at any time by modifying the settings of your browser to reject or disable cookies. If you choose to decline cookies, you may not be able to fully experience the features of the Sites or other websites that you visit.

For further information about cookies and how to disable them please visit www.aboutcookies.org or www.allaboutcookies.org

4 Links to other Websites

Our site may contain links to third-party websites, products and services. We have no liability or responsibility for those websites, products and services, their policies, or their collection or other processing of your personal information. The practices of those third parties with respect to information collected through their websites, products or services are governed by their own privacy policies. We encourage you to learn about the privacy policies of those third parties.

5 Contact us

If you have questions regarding this Privacy Statement or our handling of your personal information, would like to lodge a complaint, or wish to contact our Data Protection Officer, please contact us using the contact information listed below. We will promptly address your concern and strive to reach a satisfactory resolution. Email:
